

Lately, a few people have been asking me my opinion for the Brony DnD drama that's been cropping up. If ya don't know, good, better not to dive into the headache that is this. The only reason I bring it up is to say simply this..... I do not care about it

You read that right, I do not care. You see, the Brony dnd was something I never really gave any attention to start. In fact, I didn't really know it existed beyond one video until this drama started. And, while I do not like it, I acknowledge it is not my place to tell people what to do, if they wish to keep making those videos it is their choice... however... After long consideration, having learned about all this happening, I came to one conclusion

Everyone involved in this situations are idiots, short and simple. People are dog piling, trying to force brony Dnd to be removed, and, as a result, are putting words in victim's mouths they never said, before this week I have never once had anyone ask my opinion and that infuriates me. How dare you put words in my mouth

Without once ever asking me, at all, what I thought. You're a hypocrite if you have done this as you all say "The victims want this" without asking the victims what they think at all! The very same thing you are accusing the creators of Brony Dnd of doing! And of course, those creating the content are also being stupid as their stubbornness and ignorance is causing them to shoot their own foot. Yes, it sucks to have to let the project go but when that project is causing this much issue then it's not worth saving. It's like having a broken, rotting, infected foot that is dying. You may want to keep that foot because it's a foot, it's important to you, but if you leave it, the infection on that foot will spread to the rest of your body and KILL YOU. So, it's logical to have the foot cut off, especially if there is nothing that can be done to remedy it. They can remove Toon from the campaign but all that will be remembered is that he was once in it.... and that'll cause the dog piling to continue, for the ones yelling to continue to put words in my mouth I never said.

All involved are being ignorant, taking the words of the few to cover the whole group or by genuinely ignoring the chaos their stubbornness causes. I, for one, want nothing more to do with the situation. I have said, clear as day, my stance. I DO NOT agree with Brony Dnd, not in the slightest but acknowledge that it is not my choice to continue it, simply to decide whether or not I will support it and their creators in any way. NOR do I appreciate being spoken for like a child without a voice of my own. My solution to the first issue is to just not watch the series, to actively avoid it like I have been... as for the second issue... that is being solved here. I will say this once....DO NOT PUT WORDS IN MY MOUTH. If I see my name being used in arguments with anything I say being twisted, misused or straight up ignored I will not be happy and I will call out that crap in the most public way I possibly can. Now, with that done I would like to wish you all a wonderful day, I love you all..... and Chill man, just chill